TRIO OF REPORTS FAIL

Change in Office Expected
After Disposition of Several Cases in the Local Courts

By C. S. ALBERT
[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 16.—District Attorney McCarn probably will be removed from office at the earliest opportunity. It is likely action will be deferred until after an adjudication of his troubles by the courts, but not long beyond that period. It is regarded here as certain that his resignation will prove unusually acceptable after that time.

Those who have been the staunchest friends of Mr. McCarn, and disposed to give him the benefit of all doubts while under fire, now are reaching the conclusion that he was blamable for a large proportion of his difficulties. In fact, he is in bad all around with his former friends here.

When the McCarn situation reached an acute state Attorney-General McRynolds and all those well acquainted with Mr. McCarn insisted that there should be a suspension of judgment until a settlement of court proceedings was reached. Everybody was disposed to keep an open mind and patiently wait the outcome. That condition no longer exists.

It developed today that three or four entirely independent investigations were made in Hawaii, all directed to ascertaining the precise status of Mr. McCarn and reviewing all his actions since assuming the District Attorneyship in the Territory. It is said that none of these investigators knew that the others were working on the same trail.

All of the reports submitted are said to place blame upon Mr. McCarn for bringing various kinds of trouble and worry upon himself and the Department of Justice. Each investigator is said to hold Mr. McCarn culpable and not one of them has a good word to file in his behalf.

The effect of these adverse reports has been to alienate the Attorney-General and other superiors, together with friends, from further support of Mr. McCarn. The sentiment has turned against him.

Although no immediate action is anticipated the impression strongly prevails that a change in the District Attorney's office will be made at the earliest practicable moment.

FARRINGTON CLAIMS KIN TO WALDRON

Defines "Efficiency" and Denounces "Bunco Game" as Played in Local Politics

"Fred Waldron says I repeat efficiency like a parrot. All right. If that's so, we're twins in our relation to the local political problem," said W. R. Farrington, referring to Mr. Waldron's letter in the Advertiser this morning.

"Let's get down to what we deem efficiency."

"In the first place to secure efficient government we must have efficient politics. Good politics is good government."

"In order to be efficient in politics it is necessary to interpret correctly and incisively the issues of the hour. President Wilson has said with absolute wisdom that politics is interpretation."

"In my opinion the issue of the hour is not what we are paying the mayor and the supervisors, and the other public servants of this city and county, but it is rather what we are

NURNBERG TO SEA, BEARING SEALED ORDERS

German Cruiser to Protect the Commerce of That Country
Along Coast of Asia

STEAMED FROM HARBOR
WITHOUT AID OF PILOT

Report of Long Stay at Samoa
Is Scouted by Those Who Are on the "Inside"

To protect German interests and commerce along the coast of Asia, it is believed to be the important mission assigned to the trim second-class cruiser Nurnberg, which at midnight mysteriously stole out from Honolulu harbor omitting the services of a pilot and proceeding to a destination declared to be unknown even to Captain von Schoenberg and his lieutenants, until the vessel was well off the three-mile limit when the explicit orders were to be opened and followed.

While it was given out in an unofficial way that the Nurnberg, whose departure had been hastened by 48 hours owing to the acute condition of affairs in continental Europe, might proceed to the Samoan Islands, this theory is scouted by those who profess to have gained a brief insight into the prospective movements of the war vessel at the port.

The great German naval base at Ketchikan, and the important port of Tsingtau on the north China coast, but a few hours steaming from the Japanese stronghold at the southern extremity of the Liaoting peninsula, are placed at a disadvantage with the withdrawal of any of the fighting craft. The Leipzig, a sister ship to the Nurnberg, which called at Honolulu during the earlier part of the present month, has been stationed at Tsingtau only to depart from there to be replaced by the Nurnberg.

Commander von Schoenberg received important cables shortly after 5 o'clock last evening. At that time his vessel had received its allotment of coal and the several gangs of men had been dismissed and the gear necessary for the loading and stowing of the fuel had been removed.

Immediately following the receipt of messages from the war office, Berlin, unusual activity was manifested on board the German war vessel. Orders were dispatched to various parts of the city and the shore leave previously granted to a number of officers and men was rescinded, the Nurnberg men being ordered to return at once to their ship.

Additional fuel was taken to the naval wharf, and a force of stowaways summoned at a late hour at night to place the coal on board. This work was not completed until 11:30. No time was lost in trimming ship and cleaning the vessel. Without undue noise or commotion, lines were cast off and the Nurnberg backed into the stream and was soon lost to view, steaming through the channel to the open sea.

The Nurnberg is capable of making from 20 to 23 knots an hour under forced draft and with selected fuel. The coal supplied the cruiser last evening was the best obtainable at the port, and the inference is gained that the Nurnberg will figure in a record passage across the Pacific.

The sudden departure of the vessel under sealed orders proved a keen disappointment to members of the local German colony who had planned a pleasing series of fetes, entertainments and dinners for the officers and the men.

case might be nollod or dropped in the court. If I ruled now, I should deny the suggestions for record, but in view of the circumstances, I agree with Mr. Lindsay in that the matter should be postponed until the return of Mr. McCarn.

Judge Clemons informed counsel for the district attorney that he would be glad to reconsider that motion to strike the suggestions from record upon the return of Mr. McCarn.

The date for the trial of Mr. McCarn in the federal court had been set for August 10, but, in view of his departure for Washington tomorrow, a continuance would be granted.

According to communications which have been received here by Schaefer & Company heavy rains fell in the Hamakua district Sunday, 20 inches having been recorded at Lahaina in 24 hours, and five inches for the same length of time on the coast. The former record was secured at the Lahaina forest station which has an elevation of 1955 feet. Six years ago 40 inches of rain fell at Laupahoehoe in 24 hours.

Austria Working Rapidly in Mobilization of Her Troops

[Associated Press Service by Federal Wireless.]
VIENNA, Austria, July 28.—Mobilization of Austria's troops is proceeding at a rapid pace; the entire railroad system of the country being devoted to the movement of troops, which are being rushed toward the Serbian border as quickly as possible.

The telegraph lines also have been pressed into service in behalf of the government's movement of troops, the lines being practically monopolized for the transmission of army orders.

The strictest censorship is being imposed on the railroads and on all matter going over the telegraph lines.

Austrians Seize Servian Vessel

NISH, Servia, July 28.—The Austrian troops struck what is believed to be the initial blow of a war that may eventually involve the entire of Europe, with the seizure of the Servian Danube steamer Deligrad Morava near here today.

The Austrian flag was hoisted on the Servian vessel and all passengers were detained on board.

No resistance was made to the capture of the vessel which is a purely commercial one and not equipped with arms of any description.

From reports which have reached here the treatment accorded the passengers was of the best.

Germans Will Not Be Reassured

"In order to get this full value we are told that we must have business men in office. Being interpreted, this means we want men who know their business, and are willing to do it. We don't want men who can say to us when we criticize them, 'What's the matter with you? Are we not giving you time for nothing?' Every man who goes into public office must expect criticism. He must get his principal reward from the joy of the game of doing. He is entitled to all the money his position properly filled is worth."

JURISDICTION IN M'CARN CASE NOT YET AGREED UPON

Indications Are That Federal Court Will Maintain Right
For First Trial

Whether the federal or territorial court will be the first to try and dispose of its respective case against United States District Attorney Jeff McCarn, charged in both instances with assault with a weapon upon Attorney Claudius H. McBride, will remain a matter of doubt until the return of the district attorney from Washington, D. C.

Acting upon the suggestion of Alexander Lindsay, Jr., special assistant to the attorney-general, Judge Charles F. Clemons in the federal court this morning ruled that there be a postponement of the discussion on the matter until after Mr. McCarn's return. At the same time he denied to counsel for the district attorney a motion to strike from the files of the federal court suggestions for record, recently filed by A. M. Brown, second deputy city and county attorney, asking that the territorial court be the first to try and dispose of its case against Mr. McCarn, on the ground that it brought the first indictment against the district attorney and thereby secured first jurisdiction.

The hearing in the matter was held in the federal court at 9 o'clock this morning. Mr. McCarn and two of his counsel, J. Lightfoot and Judge A. S. Humphreys, were present. Attorney L. Andrews and A. M. Brown, second deputy city and county attorney, were present representing the territory and Special Assistant Alex-

British Squadrons Mobilizing All Mazagines are Guarded

[Associated Press service by Federal Wireless.]
LONDON, England, July 28.—Great Britain's battle squadrons are being mobilized as rapidly as possible.

The destroyer flotillas located around the British coast are most active in the mobilization plans which are of an alarmingly warlike nature.

An armed guard surrounds all magazines and oil depots throughout the British Isles.

Sir Edward Grey having failed in his plans to call a conference to consider mediation of the Austro-Servian dispute is now making every endeavor to localize the conflict.

Montenegrins Joining Servians

VIENNA, Austria, July 28.—Private advices received here state that the Montenegrin troops are joining with the Serbians in making war against Austria as a common enemy.

There is no official confirmation of this report.

Panic in Chicago Wheat Pit

CHICAGO, Ill., July 28.—Fluctuations and panic in the wheat pit of a nature that have been foreign to Chicago for many years followed the announcement this morning that war had been declared between Austria and Serbia.

The wheat market jumped three cents at the opening of the market and closed eight points higher than it opened.

The trading was immense, recalling the days of Joseph Leiter's efforts to corral the country's supply.

The heaviest trading followed with a receipt by several big dealers of news that the relations of Russia and Germany were extremely tense.

Important Conference at Potsdam

BERLIN, Germany, July 28.—An important conference was held at Potsdam, Prussia, last night. It was attended by Kaiser Wilhelm, Imperial Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg and strategic heads of the army and navy to determine Germany's policy in the present European crisis.

The British and French ambassadors, Sir Edward Goschen and Jules Cambon also visited Minister of Foreign Affairs von Jagow with communications from their governments.

Authentic information received here this morning is that while Russia is not mobilizing its forces, it is taking precautionary measures, not to be caught unprepared in the event of an emergency.

It is understood that England has announced its intention not to intervene in the Austria-Servian trouble, but that it is seeking a basis on which Germany, France and England, by action at Vienna and St. Petersburg might prevent a spread of the conflict.

France has proposed to Germany to use its influence at Vienna with a view to having Austria-Hungary pursue a policy of more moderation in the present trouble.

Anticipating War, Russia Mined

LONDON, July 28.—A newspaper dispatch from Copenhagen says that several Russian harbors in the Baltic sea have been mined in anticipation of developments over the Austria-Servian capture.

Shamrock IV Reaches Azores After Seven Days Out to Sea

[Associated Press service by Federal Wireless.]
FAYAL, Azores, July 28.—Shamrock IV, Sir Thomas Lipton's cup challenger, arrived here today seven days out from England, and shows splendid seaworthiness.

After a slight delay the challenger will proceed to her destination.

Under Lindsay, Jr., representing the government.

Following the filing of the motion to strike out the suggestions for record, which motion was based on the grounds that "A. M. Brown is not a party in the above entitled court and cause (the federal court and the case of the United States against Jeff McCarn) does not represent any such party and was and is without authority to file the said document or any document in said court and cause."

Attorney Lightfoot protested against the presence in the case of Attorney Andrews and Brown. He referred to the suggestions for record as "a piece of colossal impertinence which should be stricken from the file."

Judge Clemons interposed at this point, stating that if the special assistant needed any assistance in the
